Women’s Experiences in Leadership in K-16 Science Education Communities, Becoming and Being Katherines C. Wieseman 2009-06-18 A discourse on women’s leadership within science education has, until now, been largely invisible in book form. This, therefore, is the first book to address women’s leadership within science education. The book embraces relational ways of knowing as a foundation for leadership and takes courageous steps by exposing our innermost tensions, dilemmas, and feelings about leadership, making them available to others. The power of process feminism approaches to transform traditional leadership cultures is also addressed. The authors believe that anyone can lead, regardless of position, title, years of experience or age. They also believe that each of us has a responsibility to provide some leadership and direction for the shared endeavours of which we are part. The purpose of the book is to inspire and guide educators and academics in K-16 science education, as well as individuals in other professions, as their leadership skills develop. The leadership activities provided offer guidance and/or concrete ways to delve into issues of leadership.

Distinctive Styles and Authorship in Alternative Comics-Laila Elter 2020-12-16 Distinctive Styles and Authorship in Alternative Comics addresses the limits and limits of analyses of style in alternative comics. It offers three close readings of works serially published between 1980 and 1984 - A Spaceygnaut’s Maus, Bechdel’s Dykes to Watch Out For, and Jason Lotus’s Beasts — and discusses how artistic style may influence the ways in which readers construct authorship.

New Essays on Dostoevsky-Makvin V. Jones 1983-03-31 This book comprises essays to mark the centenary of Dostoevsky’s death in 1881. The first part considers specific works and the second part ranges more widely over aspects of the great novelist’s work, including essays on Dostoevsky as a philosopher, on his religious thought and on formalist and structuralist approaches to his work.

Adapting Gaskell-Loredana Salis 2014-02-28 “This book offers a range of perspectives on Elizabeth Gaskell and adaptation. The contributors - Alan Sholto, Raffaella Antinucci, Thomas Ricchin, Brenda McKay, Katherine Byrne, Patricia Marchesi, Marcia Marcioni and Loredana Salis - discuss the afterlives of Gaskell’s fiction, from the author as adaptor of her own work to the role of the BBC in adapting Gaskell’s stories. The collection, as a whole, seems to confirm the notion that since the inception of film, the number of adaptations of an author’s work equates to the writer’s canonical status. No doubt, this book will prompt many more investigations into the adaptability of Elizabeth Gaskell’s fiction.” - Deborah Carnell, De Montfort University, Leicester

Observing Children in Their Natural Worlds-Anthony D. Pellogrin 2014-04-08 This second edition updates the methods based on new technologies, updates and increases the number of examples, and reorganizes so the theoretical material is up front. The author’s decisions were guided by having used the first edition in classes at two universities. Consequently, he revised feedback on the book from a variety of different perspectives—from groups of very conscientious and competent students and from colleagues around the world who have used the book. By contrast, the most popular version of the first edition was the organization of the book, where the student/researcher is guided through conceptualizing, designing, implementing, and writing up the research project. This basic organization is the same as in the first edition, however, within this organizational frame things have changed. The discussion of the place of direct observational methods in relation to different "qualitative" and "quantitative" research traditions has been kept, but expanded. Discus...
The book weaves design theory and methods with case studies of professional practice from leading information designers across the world. The densely illustrated text is riporous yet readable and offers a single, must-have, reference to anyone interested in information design or any of its related disciplines such as interaction design and information architecture, information graphics, document design, universal design, service design, map-making and wayfinding.

Teacher Education: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications

Management Association, Information Resources 2016-05-19 Educators play a significant role in the intellectual and social development of children and young adults. Next-generation teachers can only be as strong as their own educational foundation which serves to cultivate their knowledge of the learning process, uncover best practices in the field of education, and employ leadership abilities that will inspire students of all ages. Teacher Education: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications explores the current state of pre-service teacher programs as well as continuing education initiatives for in-service educators. Emphasizing the growing role of technology in teacher skill development and training as well as key teaching methods and pedagogical developments, this multi-volume work compiles research essential to higher education professionals and administrators, educational software developers, and researchers studying pre-service and in-service teacher training.

Voice Attractiveness

Benjamin Weiss 2020-10-10 This book addresses various aspects of acoustic-phonetic analysis, including voice quality and fundamental frequency, and the effects of speech fluency and non-native accents, by examining real speech, public speech, and conversations. Voice is a sexually dimorphic trait that can convey important biological and social information about the speaker, and empirical findings suggest that voice characteristics and preferences play an important role in both intra- and intersexual selection, such as competition and mating, and social evaluation. Discussing evaluation criteria like physical attractiveness, pleasantness, likability, and even persuasiveness and charisma, the book bridges the gap between social and biological views on voice attractiveness. It presents conceptual, methodological and empirical work applying methods such as passive listening tests, psychoacoustic rating experiments, and crowd-sourced and interactive scenarios and highlights the diversity not only of the methods used when studying voice attractiveness, but also of the domains investigated, such as politicians’ speech, experimental speed dating, speech synthesis, vocal pathology, and voice preferences in human interactions as well as in human–computer and human–robot interactions. By doing so, it identifies widespread and complementary approaches and establishes common ground for further research.
